

Loren Blessing

Honors English I

Project 4

May 28, 2019

Title

Through symbolism, the creation of memory is made from two parts, flowers and angels. Memory is a word with the meaning of “recalling the past.” which is also paired with the word Remembrance which has the meaning “The ability to remember; to bear in mind.”. Just like words angels and flowers have definitions and connect to the idea of remembrance and the memory of someone.

The angel of death, Azrael, for example, is a big symbol of memory. Keeping someone in mind after they’ve passed through the mortal and into the spiritual one. Azrael is also known as Death or The Reaper. This is the angel who, though is known with a darker meaning, actually tends to help those in grief still in the world of the living.

Though Azrael is a big figure for memory, there are still little things, like flowers. Forget-me-not's already have a name with a meaning contributing to memory, in which many tales were told about it. The main one was of God, saying he would never forget Earth, of which he calls his greatest creation. The meaning is “Remembrance after death.” and “Favorite times you’ve spent with a person.” In General of keeping someone in mine and recalling the past.

Carnations are a symbol of love and good luck which can be often recalled in good memories. Their meanings depend on the colors. Carnations are also seen as the flowers of the gods, giving them just an overall sense of good luck. This flower has a strong history to it and remembering all the meanings and stories are truly amazing. Some date back to Ancient Greece and Ancient Rome. The Christians believed that these flowers grew from the tears of Mary, watching Jesus carry the cross.

Alyssums are another flower which is known for healing properties and fortune.

Alyssum's are meant for health through memories. Good memories are always funny, kind, or just good moments in life. Alyssums are said to be good luck and will easily grow anywhere.

The way it grows is certainly interesting. It grows in even some, not-so-great environments. Just like in memories how people persist and move on, growing even in bad times. People learning things through life and through memory, thinking back, to the past.

Angels and flowers have a deep meaning and can always be seen in more perspectives than one. The idea of combining the angel of death, Azrael, and flowers together is something that just clicked. Losing someone is a downside but we keep them in our memory and we grow from experience. Through meanings and symbolism flowers and angels can connect to each other. Meanings are only part of it as the other is interpretation. Together, angels and flowers can bring an entire n